Saturday, September 11th 2010.

Accommodation

Hotel: Mercure Montparnasse Gaité
20 rue de la Gaité 75014 PARIS
Tel: +33 1 43 35 28 28
Fax: +33 1 43 35 78 00

Transportation

By bus

A bus will go from the hotel to the Paris School of Economics both on Friday and Saturday. The bus will wait at the crossing between “Rue de la Gaité” and “Boulevard Edgar Quinet”, approximately 100 meters from the hotel. The meeting point is on the map below.

The bus will leave precisely at 8.30 am both on Friday and Saturday.

If you want to take the bus, you really need to be ready on time. Latecomers can either take a taxi or the metro, preferably at the Montparnasse-Bienvenue station, located 200m from the hotel (also shown on map below). Line 4 goes straight to Porte d’Orléans where PSE is.

The Paris School of Economics (Ecole d’Economie de Paris) is 5 minutes away from the Porte d’Orléans metro station. Street address: 48 boulevard Jourdan, 75014 Paris.

Friday dinner (September 10th)

A dinner will be offered for speakers, discussants and organizers on Friday night. It will take place at Le Bouillon Racine, 3 rue Racine, 75006 Paris.

A bus will leave from PSE at 7 pm on Friday. The Metro station to get to the restaurant is Odéon. It is also on line 4 (see map below, the restaurant being the red spot), therefore straight from Porte d'Orléans (PSE) or Montparnasse (Hotel).

The bus will leave from the restaurant at 9.30 pm to go back to the hotel Mercure Montparnasse. There are dozens of bars around the restaurant, especially around the Odeon metro station, for those who might want to have a drink after the dinner.

Have a nice stay in Paris!
